8 TIPS

FOR SELECTING NEW WINDOWS

May 2021

This article was written by the Lifetime Marketing Team using content curated from Marvin blog posts including an article by stylist, designer, and blogger Emily Henderson.

Replacing your home's windows can be one of the best investments you make in your home. The right new windows will not only make your home more beautiful, they will also make your home more comfortable and energy efficient. But let's also be realistic – replacing your windows is a big project and navigating the wide range of styles and options can be overwhelming. We gathered the following tips to help guide you through the process.

1. CONSIDER YOUR ENVIRONMENT.

First and foremost, always remember that all locations have different environmental needs. Things to consider are moisture levels, altitude, and temperatures (desert vs. coastal vs. harsh winters). One window does not fit all.

2. THINK OUTSIDE THE (EXISTING) BOX.

One of the most common oversights is people replacing their windows for the same window. Yes, sometimes windows need to be swapped out for functionality or energy efficiency, but take a minute and consider what else you might be able to do. Is there something unique or special you can do instead that might work better for your design/how you use your house?

3. CONSIDER HOW THE LIGHT WOULD MOVE THROUGH YOUR HOUSE DURING THE DAY.

If you're a night owl or someone who struggles with sleep, you probably won't want to place a window in your bedroom on the eastern wall. This is also a big deal in a kid's room. Unless you want your littles jumping out of bed right at sunrise, carefully consider that window placement.

4. KEEP YOUR HOME'S STYLE IN MIND.

When you're in the middle of a renovation, style paralysis can set in quickly once you're faced with 10,000 decisions. But don't feel intimidated. Start by identifying your home's architectural style and taking a bit of a deep dive on Pinterest or Google to see other houses in that same aesthetic. What kind of windows do they all seem to share? Gridded? Picture? Double hung? Bay? Also take note of the color of the window frame and what you're drawn to or what feels natural to the architecture.

5. LOOK FOR APPEARANCE AND PERFORMANCE.

Good window design isn't just about appearance. You want windows that function smoothly and easily—and will continue to do so for years to come. And you want windows that are energy efficient. Installing quality energy efficient windows will not only keep you more comfortable (summer and winter), but they can also save you money on utilities—not to mention the lower impact on the environment.

6. THINK OF WINDOWS AS AN "INVESTMENT" RATHER THAN "EXPENSIVE."

New windows are not inexpensive. They are an investment. But replacing old windows can reduce high energy bills in both cold and hot climates, reduce mold in wetter climates, and generally have a positive impact on the way your home functions. Windows are also a structural component of your house and an important piece to ensuring it stays sound for years to come.

7. INVEST IN ENERGY EFFICIENT WINDOWS.

All Marvin windows are ENERGY STAR® certified and recommendations are given for four climate zones in the United States—the mostly heating zone (Northern); two combination heating and cooling zones (North/Central and South/Central); and a mostly cooling zone (Southern). Every qualified window will list the zones it is certified for. The ENERGY STAR® standard is a good benchmark for energy-conscious architects and builders, but every house is unique.

8. MAKE SURE YOUR NEW WINDOWS COME WITH A WARRANTY.

A lot of home elements look great when they're new. But when it comes to your windows, you want something that will continue to look (and function) like new for years to come. Marvin windows, for instance, come with a warranty of 10 years on parts and 20 years on glass. For added peace of mind, Lifetime Windows & Siding offers a double transferable lifetime warranty that covers parts and labor.
